

Byron Olivares

Trainer, Positive Space
Toronto, Ontario

Byron is a human resources specialist with a background in staffing and labour relations. He studied human resources at McGill University and then completed a graduate degree in Industrial Relations at University of Toronto. He moved to Toronto in 2008 working in the private sector for both McDonald's and Sears until he started his career in the public sector with the CRA in 2010. Being a person who identifies himself as queer, Byron is proud to deliver positive space awareness training to introduce the topic of sexual and gender diversity in the workplace.